- Remember information about you so that you don't have to input it over, and over and over!!
- And to personalise your use of our website, by remembering your preference and settings
- Keep you signed in on your different devices
- Help us to provide a better service

Our Cookies Notice

Our Site enables script (e.g. cookies) that is able to read, store and write information on your browser and in your device. Cookies do not typically include identifying personal information but cookies may also be linked to personal identifiers which are stored about you, such as your IP address, session details and browsing activity.

We use cookies for a number of functions including to retain your user preferences, store information from elements of our Site such as shopping carts, and to provide anonymised tracking data to third party applications such as Google Analytics. These cookies are likely to be analytical/performance cookies or targeting cookies. We also use the information to deliver content, maintain security, enable user choice and to improve our Site. You can reject all non-essential processing by choosing to accept only necessary cookies.

In general, cookies should make your browsing experience better. You may prefer to disable cookies which you can do by disabling cookies in your browser. We suggest following the steps via the 'Help' tool of your browser. Please note that if you change your browser settings to block all cookies (including essential cookies) you may not be able to access some or all of our Site.

Except for essential cookies, all cookies expire within a reasonable period of time.

Types of cookies which may be used:

Session cookies - These cookies only last as long as your online session and they disappear once you close your browser.

Persistent cookies - These cookies stay on your device after your browser has been closed and remain for a specific period of time. These types of cookies help us to remember your preferences for next time and they may also track your activity. For example, if you join our website via an affiliate link, cookies will track your activity if you return at a later date and make a purchase.

Strictly necessary cookies - These cookies let you into our website. Without them we can't deliver our website to you. There is certain information that our website has to collect in order to perform. An example would be the use of your login information, without it you cannot gain entry to password protected content.

Functional cookies - These cookies help us to personalise your experience on our Site by remembering your preferences and settings. An example of this may be that our Site may remember if you've visited before so that you don't get a pop-up if you're not a new visitor.

Performance cookies - These cookies help us to ensure that our website is working properly and allows us to fix any errors.

Advertising cookies – We may use advertising cookies to track your activity and then send you targeted advertising.
